Narration:

Many people wonder if we have enough wind, in our country, to make a difference with our energy needs. As shown in this map, we have plenty of wind for the US, as well as Canada, and Mexico. You can see in red, where the wind is the best, but you don't need the best wind to make electricity economically. While the coasts and the upper Midwest have excellent wind, there is a lot of places with economical wind in the rest of the country.
